

PIPE HANGERS AND SUPPORTS PVT LTD

Technical seminar on Hangers & Supports

It is said that it is the greatest of challenges that offer the best of opportunities. We found it to be true during the ongoing pandemic. While one would have expected that the travel restrictions and the social distancing norms would lead to a communication gap with our customers' design personnel, the reverse happened, thanks to our online technical seminars.

It all started with one of our repeat customers requesting for an online seminar, since all their engineers were working from home and felt the need to keep themselves technically updated. The success of that effort and the positive feedback that we received has made us repeat the same with many several of our other esteemed customers. We are offering this service free to all our major customers.

The seminar includes a detailed presentation on our range of hangers and supports as also technical details involved in the selection and application of all the products, including Constant load hangers, Variable spring hangers, Rigid struts and snubbers. The fact that our Engineering personnel, who are the speakers in these seminars, have a vast experience in the design of piping and supports, is a great value add. The seminar also covers various site issues, that we feel are critical, based on our experience of supplying hangers and supports for more than three decades. The seminars are extremely interactive and help to clarify the participant's queries regarding selection, as well as, adjustment of supports at site.

While we have a standard format for these seminars, the duration of these seminars can also be tuned to the requirements of the customer and the time allocated by them.
